

46-501 Historical and Philosophical Foundations of Psychology

Course Learning Outcomes

Last Updated: October 6, 2017

(Sa171006-5.5.2)

Learning Outcomes	Characteristics of a University of Windsor Graduate
At the end of the course, the successful student will know and be able to:	A U of Windsor graduate will have the ability to demonstrate:
A. Describe and contrast a variety of approaches to the philosophy of science underlying modern psychology. Identify and describe relationships between the major historical world events and contemporary globalization trends that are relevant to the development of the field of psychology.	A. the acquisition, application and integration of knowledge
B.	B. research skills, including the ability to define problems and access, retrieve and evaluate information (information literacy)
C. Interpret and utilize the links between theory, research, and applied practice in psychology. Evaluate and explain the implications of important trends for the future of psychology.	C. critical thinking and problem-solving skills
D.	D. literacy and numeracy skills
E. Examine current issues in the field and society in a manner that is informed by historical and philosophical views of the field.	E. responsible behaviour to self, others and society
F. Communicate effectively about the philosophical and historical underpinnings of the field of psychology.	F. interpersonal and communications skills
G.	G. teamwork, and personal and group leadership skills
H.	H. creativity and aesthetic appreciation
I.	I. the ability and desire for continuous learning