

46-505 Cognitive Bases of Behaviour

Course Learning Outcomes

Last Updated: October 6, 2017

(Sa171006-5.5.2)

Learning Outcomes	Characteristics of a University of Windsor Graduate
This is a sentence completion exercise. At the end of the course, the successful student will know and be able to:	A U of Windsor graduate will have the ability to demonstrate:
A. Demonstrate understanding of the basic methodologies and the logic of cognitive psychology, in areas such as attention, perception, learning, memory and thinking.	A. the acquisition, application and integration of knowledge
B. Identify relevant research in the area of cognitive psychology. Develop novel research projects that could potentially follow from existing research in cognitive psychology.	B. research skills, including the ability to define problems and access, retrieve and evaluate information (information literacy)
C. Critique research for current relevance to the field. Critique the quality of research in the area of cognitive psychology.	C. critical thinking and problem-solving skills
D. Critique quality of communication and quality of analytic/statistical procedures used in research in the area of cognitive psychology.	D. literacy and numeracy skills
E. Engage in professional and insightful discussion of research issues in the field of cognitive psychology.	E. responsible behaviour to self, others and society
F. Present research in cognitive psychology effectively in oral and written formats.	F. interpersonal and communications skills
G. Participate effectively in group discussions of relevant research.	G. teamwork, and personal and group leadership skills
H.	H. creativity and aesthetic appreciation
I. Make connections between recent theories of cognitive psychology and practice in applied psychology.	I. the ability and desire for continuous learning