

46-581 Ethical and Professional Issues in Clinical Psychology

Learning Outcomes

Last Updated: October 6, 2017

(Sa171006-5.5.2)

Learning Outcomes	Characteristics of a University of Windsor Graduate
This is a sentence completion exercise. At the end of the course, the successful student will know and be able to:	A U Windsor graduate will have the ability to demonstrate:
A. Describe influential ethical codes, guidelines, standards, regulations, and legal statutes that guide psychological practice and scholarship in the province, country, and beyond.	A. the acquisition, application and integration of knowledge
B. Describe and examine ethical issues inherent to a number of sub-fields of psychology.	B. research skills, including the ability to define problems and access, retrieve and evaluate information (information literacy)
C. Recognize and examine ethical issues, devised and evaluate courses of action, and select appropriate actions. Apply procedures for ethical decision-making. Articulate and apply moral and ethical principles and dimensions of professional identity. Reflect on personal values that have the potential to impact professional practice.	C. critical thinking and problem-solving skills
D.	D. literacy and numeracy skills
E. Demonstrate ethical sensitivity regarding the multiple roles that psychologists play.	E. responsible behaviour to self, others and society
F. Share informed opinions about ethical issues. Determine when to consult regarding ethical and professional issues of concern.	F. interpersonal and communications skills
G. Provide effective consultation regarding issues of ethical and professional concern.	G. teamwork, and personal and group leadership skills
H.	H. creativity and aesthetic appreciation
I. Evaluate current and anticipated areas of professional competence. Reflect on and plan for ongoing professional development and self-care during training and throughout the career.	I. the ability and desire for continuous learning