

ECON-2410. Microeconomics for the Real World

Learning Outcomes

Last Updated: April 8, 2016

(PDC160317-5.3)

Course Learning Outcomes	Characteristics of a University of Windsor Graduate
At the end of this course, the successful student will know and be able to:	A U of Windsor graduate will have the ability to demonstrate:
A. Explain concepts in micro-economics, such as pricing of goods, strategic problem solving, consumer behavior and equilibrium.	A. the acquisition, application and integration of knowledge
B. Identify and analyze relevant economic data while disregarding the immaterial data in the popular media.	B. research skills, including the ability to define problems and access, retrieve and evaluate information (information literacy)
C. Apply concepts of rationality and utility-maximizing behaviour to individuals, consumers, firms and social organizations.	C. critical thinking and problem-solving skills
D. Analyze a variety of common real world situations students face in their personal and future professional lives.	D. literacy and numeracy skills
E. Use micro-economic theory to explain how economic, social and global problems can affect different members of society in different ways.	E. responsible behaviour to self, others and society
F.	F. interpersonal and communications skills
G.	G. teamwork, and personal and group leadership skills
H.	H. creativity and aesthetic appreciation
I.	I. the ability and desire for continuous learning